EDN Online Pitching call for art documentary projects

EDN – European Documentary Network is calling for art documentary projects for their second EDN Online Pitching Session happening on December 9, 2010. This new thematic pitching format is based on an online video-conference, where three documentary projects are introduced. Deadline is November 11, 2010.

The aim of the EDN Online Pitching Sessions is to create a forum where documentary projects with a specific focus can be introduced and discussed. This low cost set-up makes it possible to create room for introductions and discussions of themes and focuses not always viable in the offline world.

At the EDN Online Pitching Session three documentary projects are pitched to a group of leading international financiers and decision makers. The pitching takes place online in the EDN Video Conference Room and the session lasts one hour.

For the online pitching there will be 6-8 financiers and experts participating to comment on the presented projects and express their interest in potential co-production and financing opportunities.

To see the financiers who have already confirmed their participation and learn how you can submit your project, please go to the EDN web page for EDN Online Pitching Session: art documentaries - <http://www.edn.dk/activities/edn-activity-texts/edn-online-pitching-session-art-documentaries/>
